Figel examination was resumed this morning. Edward S. Rothschild of the firm of Hoffman, Rethschild & Co., testified to several matters which tend to show that Figel committed other crimes besides that at bar. Among other things it was shown that Figel had received various amounts for the firm amounting to about $1,170, but had falled to credit them or enter them in the cash book. Two checks amounting to $1,200 were also introduced in evidence, both of which are alleged to have been formed.
